PRIZE WINNERS

JUDGE BEN S. MYERS OF CRAWFORDSVILLE AWARDS THE PREMIUMS AT THE ANNUAL POULTRY SHOW, WHICH IS GIVEN BY PUTNAM COUNTY FANCIERS' ASSOCIATION. FINE POULTRY IS ON EXHIBITION.

INTEREST IN HOUND SHOW

Judge Ben S. Myers of Crawfordsville came here today, and awarded the prizes at the poultry show on the west side of the square, which is being given under the auspices of the Putnam County Fanciers' Association. He was well pleased with the class of fowls on exhibition and spoke of several of the displays of poultry in highly complimentary terms.

Although the number of entries in this year's show is not as large as was expected, the promoters of the show are pleased with the exhibit. The specimens of the poultry bred and raised in this county are of a high class variety and it is easy to understand that the owners of the chickens have spent much time in breeding and raising the best blooded fowls.

An exhibit of White Crested Black Polish chickens has attracted a great deal of attention during the first few days of the show. The fowls are owned by M. S. Miller of this city and are of a species that is seldom seen in this vicinity. The fowls have large and gaudy plumage on the top of their heads and make a very attractive appearance. The plumage of the birds is black and white and the crest of the rooster is several inches in length. The eyes of the birds are entirely covered by the plumage on the top of their heads.

Several exhibits of poultry were barred from the show room, when the owners failed to make their entries with the secretary of the fanciers' association before 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. The poultry will not be removed from the room until Saturday night and the spectators will be able to see all the exhibits before the show room is closed. Many tickets have been sold and large crowds are expected to attend the show Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Interest has increased in the promotion of the hound show and many fox dogs are expected to be entered in the exhibits Friday and Saturday. Fox hunters of this city and of practically all of the small towns of Putnam county have signified their intention of entering dogs in the show. Allen Parker will award the premiums at the hound show. He is an experienced fox hunter and is known as an excellent judge of dogs.

AUTO RACE PRIZE MONEYS

FOR 1915 OVER $200,000

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 6.—At least $200,000, conservatively estimated, will be offered in prize money this year for automobile racing, with the possibility that this amount may be increased to $400,000 before the season is out.

Indianapolis, as usual, heads the list with a guaranteed cash purse of $50,000, and accessory prizes and trophies aggregating $25,000 more. The sure purses, carefully computed, seem to be as follows, in the order of their importance:

Indianapolis	$ 50,000
Sioux City	25,000
Omaha	25,000
Tacoma	15,000
Venice	15,000
Vanderbilt	10,000
Grand Prize	10,000
Elgin	10,000
El Paso-San Diego	10,000
Los Angeles-Phoenix	10,000
Oklahoma City	10,000
Galesburg	5,000
Galveston	5,000
Uniontown Hill Clim	5,000

Total $ 205,000

Other purses which may be added, provided the plans of their promoters are realized, are Chicago $50,000, New York $50,000, Minneapolis $50,000, Detroit $25,000, and Los Angeles $10,000; together with minor offerings by dirt tracks, such as Kalamazoo, Peoria, Grand Rapids, etc., from $2500 on down. Altogether the prospects are such that even the most doubting Thomas cannot refrain from entertaining the most sanguine opinion as to the future of the auto racing game.

CHANGE OF DATE IN

KERR BROS. REVIVAL

Announcement has been made of a change in the date for the series of revival services to be conducted here by the Kerr Brothers, famous evangelists of Detroit, Michigan. The meetings will be held under the auspices of the Locust Street Methodist church on February 28 to March 14 instead of from March 28 to April 12.

The Kerr Brothers began a series of meetings in Brazil on Sunday and great interest is reported in them already. The evangelists are among the best in the country and it is believed that the services they will conduct here will be the most successful for many years.

BOOSTER CLUB BUSINESS

MEN TO MEET TONIGHT

Business men who belong to the Boosters Club are asked to remember that they are expected to attend a meeting to be held in the council chamber at the fire department building at 7 o'clock tonight. The meeting is called for the purpose of discussing the advisability of conducting drawing contests for prizes as events that are calculated to prove a big advertisement for the town.

The Asbury Conservatory of Music has purchased a new grand piano to be used in Miss Blanche Statton's teaching studio. The new instrument is a fine one and adds much to the equipment of the school.

Senator Will A. Yarling, Shelbyville.

CAUCUS CHAIRMAN.

Senator Chester A. McCormick, North Judson.

PRINCIPAL DOORKEEPER.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

Senator Fred VanNys, Anderson.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 6.—

Wade H. Free of Anderson will be re-elected secretary of the Senate when it convenes for the first day's legislative session tomorrow morning. Free's election was decided on at a caucus of Democratic senators at the State House last night. He received twenty-eight votes of a total of forty-two. His election will meet with the approval of the greater part of the members of the party both in the legislature and in the state at large.

R. L. Thomas of Auburn will be elected chief doorkeeper of the Senate; Senator Fred VanNys of Anderson was chosen for president pro tem. and floor leader; Senator Will A. Yarling of Shelbyville was elected caucus chairman, and Senator C. A. McCormick of North Judson was chosen caucus secretary.

H. B. Skillman, formerly of South Bend, and now of Indianapolis, was chosen assistant secretary.

Expense Committee Named.

In addition to the selection of a roster of employees for the two months' session, the Democratic senators named Senators Stephen B. Fleming of Fort Wayne, Jacob C. Kolsem of Terre Haute and Edward P. Elmer of Seymour a "legislative expense committee," whose duties will be to determine the number of employees necessary adequately to conduct the affairs of the Senate throughout the session.

There were forty-one of the forty-two Democratic senators at the caucus, Senator Levi P. Harlan of Indianapolis, who is ill, being the only one absent. Senator Harlan was represented by proxy. Free was chosen on the first ballot. The candidates against him were: C. E. Custer of Columbus, F. S. Houston of Salem and W. M. Moss of Linton. Custer and Houston were Free's most active opponents.

Agree to Economy.

The advisability of keeping the number of employees of the Senate down to the lowest possible figure as a means of practicing economy was agreed to by the senators in caucus. The duties of the "legislative expense committee" will be to see that an adequate number of clerks, doorkeepers, pages, stenographers and such employees in on the pay roll to do the work properly, but the idea of having a large number of men on the pay roll whose services are not required will be frowned on. It is estimated that the work in the Senate can be done with between sixty and seventy employees.

On the selection of an assistant secretary of the Senate four ballots were necessary. J. A. Sweeney of Plymouth was Skillman's chief opponent. There were two or three other candidates for the place but they received only a few votes. The selection of Senator Chester A. McCormick as caucus secretary was made without opposition.

R. C. Thomas of Auburn was elected chief doorkeeper over George P. Cline of Union County and Michael McCarty of Indianapolis. Two ballots were taken before a doorkeeper was named.

Senators and representatives arrived in large numbers yesterday to "get settled" before the opening of the session tomorrow. The struggle for places in the Senate and House official roster was vigorous and was almost the sole topic of discussion at the hotels where the solons gathered.

Habermel is Out.

The withdrawal yesterday of Representative William Habermel of Corydon from the race for speaker of the House left the field to three candidates, Mason J. Niblack of Vincennes, Fred L. Feick of Garrett and Charles H. Bedwell of Sullivan. Bedwell maintained his lead over the others throughout the day and the withdrawal of Habermel appeared to be in his favor.

Habermel declared he was withdrawing in favor of no one, but indicated he would be favorable to the election of Bedwell. The Sullivan representative has the support of Governor Ralston and practically the entire administration.

House Elects Tonight.

The caucus on the speakership and on the selection of employees for the conduct of the House business will be held in the House chamber tonight. The speakership will be decided at that time.

The employment committee, made up of half a dozen representatives, which was appointed at a conference of House members about a month ago, held a meeting at the State House yesterday. Another meeting likely will be held before the caucus tonight. It is understood the members of the employment committee have decided that the business of the House can be conducted with about seventy employees. The idea is to keep the number of employees down to the lowest possible minimum.

The idea of seventy employees was suggested by members of the employment committee, after the members have investigated the probable number of persons necessary to conduct the affairs of the House adequately. The last House had about 150 employees. The seventy, it was said, will include clerks, stenographers, pages, doorkeepers and all manner of employees.

BELIEVE HAMRICK WILL BE ELECTED CLERK OF HOUSE

Friends of Arthur Hamrick, of this town, who on January 1 completed his term of office as clerk of the Putnam County Courts, believe that he will be chosen as chief clerk of the Indiana House of Representatives at the Democratic caucus to be held in Indianapolis tonight. As far as is known here Mr. Hamrick will have no opposition for the office. His election would meet with the hearty approval of party members both here and at the capitol. He is well qualified to fill the office to which he probably will be chosen tonight.

Announcements of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Eads of Roachdale January 2nd were received here today by a number of people. Mr. and Mrs. Eads are well-known here.

OUR NUTTY NOVELETTE

THE FIRST PLUNGE

Upon the precipice he poised—
The sea gulls in the air make noises;
Above him stretched the dark blue sky.

Beneath him stretches sea—oh, my!
While he stood on the ocean's brink, hesitating. The water, cold and wet, boomed upon the unresisting beach sprayfully. Far above a solitary sea gull tried to act as if it didn't feel lonely.

"Be brave, my heart!" whispered the man with an involuntary shiver. "The first plunge of the season is always rather distasteful, yet its never so nasty as it looks. If I undress real quick and jump right in it can't be so very cold. I've got my bathing suit on under my clothes. Only a coward would back out at the last minute!"

Disrobing at full speed into a tent, he dashed. Still dashing at full speed, he heard people shout as he passed them. "They know a plucky act when they see one!" he reflected, and kept on dashing at full speed. The other occupants of the beach shouted on. Some of them waved their arms.

Another moment and he was in the water. None of it seemed warm. He swam a dozen strokes and then turned back, chest out and made for the tent again. The people were still shouting enthusiastically.

It was then that he realized that he still had his trousers on.

WILLS $10,000 TO A GENTLEMAN

Ohio Widow Leaves Legacy to Nebraskan who had at one Time Aided Her Daughter

BOTH WERE INJURED IN WRECK

Night Watchman Almost Paralyzed With Amazement When Told of the Bequest

Omaha, Neb.—For being a gentleman one night fourteen years ago, Albert Ayer, of 1911 Paul Street, this city, has just fallen heir to $10,000 in cash. Ayer is a night watchman for the American District Telegraph Co., and $10,000 is more money than he ever laid eyes on at any one time in the past.

The legacy is left him by Mrs. Jas. Atkinson, of Dayton, O. The item in the will reads:

"For being a gentleman to my daughter in a time of distress I bequeath to Albert Ayer, Omaha, Neb., the sum of $10,000."

Ayer was almost paralyzed when he was informed that he had $10,000 in cash coming to him. When news of his good fortune reached him he was making his rounds in the Omaha Ice and Cold Storage Co.'s plant. He thanked his informant and continued his rounds.

"I didn't do anything but what any other man would do," he said later. "I found a girl who needed help and I helped her. Any fellow would have done that much. It was in the midst of a railroad wreck, and pretty nearly all of us were more or less smashed up. My right hand was crushed flat like a pancake. But the girl, Miss Atkinson, of Dayton, was worse off than I was, so I turned to and assisted her. And for doing a little thing like that her mother goes and leaves me $10,000."

Fourteen years ago Ayer, then just 25 years old, was en route to London, Ontario. The car was crowded. In the next seat to him was a young lady. Ayer showed her several little courtesies and thought no more of it. At Petersburg, Ontario, the train collided with another train and a number were killed and many injured. Ayer's hand was caught between two seats and was badly lacerated. In addition his arm was broken in two places.

Despite his own injuries, Ayer went about doing what he could for those worse injured than he himself was. While doing this he found the girl he had seen on the train. Her hand was crushed and she was otherwise injured.

Surgeons started to amputate the girl's hands. Ayer had her removed to a local hospital and telegraphed her mother, who arrived the next day. The hospital physicians were able to save the girl's arm, and after securing Ayer's name and address the mother and daughter returned to Dayton. Some time later Ayer received a nice note of thanks from Mrs. Atkinson, mother of the girl.

Upon the death of Mrs. Atkinson notice of the legacy was mailed to Ayer, but the notice was returned undelivered. The case was placed in the hands of an attorney, with instructions to locate Ayer. But the latter had moved around so often that he could not be found. At the time of the wreck and for ten years thereafter Ayer was unmarried, and the changed boarding houses as often as he desired. However, four years ago he married and settled down.

A week ago, while working, he had a touch of ptomaine poisoning and became so ill that he fell on the street. This fact was chronicled in a local newspaper, and the item caught the eye of the attorney who was searching for him. A call resulted, and the identification was very easily established.

"The first thing I am going to buy is a little home," he said. "It will not be an expensive one, either. And there will be no automobile—there never will be an automobile. Ten thousand dollars won't last long if I start living in that way. After I buy a home I will take the rest and probably buy a little business of some kind that I can run. But I'm not going to toss a single day's work just because I have got a little bit ahead. I will keep right on at this watchman's job until I get another one."

RAT KILLING THE TRADE FOR AMBITIOUS YOUTHS

Columbus, O.—Dr. E. R. Kelly, State Health Commissioner of Washington, which in Columbus advised every boy who is at a loss to decide on what his life's occupation shall be to take up rodentology, which is a study of rats and similar pests. It affords glittering possibilities to young Americans.

According to Dr. Kelly, it cost $1.50 a year to support each rat in the ordinary community; there are two rats for every person in the country, and the normal cost of maintaining rats for the family of five is $7.50 a year.

Dr. Kelly says that rat killing or rodentology is rapidly becoming a useful profession, and that rodentologists are in demand in the coast cities, where the bubonic plague may be carried into this country by rats. In Cuba and the Philippine Islands and other places where the bubonic plague is frequent the rodentologist, he says, will find a rich and profitable field.

HER SCREAMS ROUO FIERCE BLACK BEAR

Alabama Woman Fires Revolver at Bruin as He Retreats and Big Animal Keeps Going.

Seminole, Ala.—Mrs. Clement W. Johansen of this place is the heroine of a nerve-racking experience, one which she will probably remember for years.

About 4 o'clock in the morning the Johansen family were aroused by sounds which at first they thought to be the screams of some one in danger, but which they soon recognized as the distressful squealings of one of their brood sows.

Johansen seized his shotgun and started on a run for the scene of the commotion, but was deceived in the direction from which the sounds came, and had arrived at the road leading to the ferry—over a quarter of a mile from the house—when his attention was attracted by screams of a different nature.

A few minutes after Johansen left the house Mrs. Johansen seized a .38 caliber revolver and also started out to locate the trouble. By the time she reached the top of the hill, north of the house, it was becoming light enough to enable her to see a short distance through the scrub oak and bushes that cover the brow of the hill at that point.

She could now hear groans which caused her to fear for her husband's safety. When she called repeatedly and received no other reply than continued groans her fears were intensified. Proceeding cautiously, she was suddenly startled by the sound of heavy breathing directly in front of her. The tenseness of the situation, together with the unexpectedness of the sound, caused her to look up with a start to find herself staring into the face of a huge black bear, scarcely four feet away.

Taken by surprise, Mrs. Johansen was for a few moments almost breathless and at a loss to know what to do. Her first thought of climbing a tree she discarded immediately, as the only tree in sight was one lone pine sapling scarcely two inches in diameter; so she simply stood her ground, looking Bruin in the eye, and awaiting his next move.

Though usually inclined to give people a wide berth as well as a right-of-way, Bruin was not in a pleasant humor this morning, and habit and inclination, for the moment, seemed to be having a struggle within him.

After standing and glaring at his visitor for perhaps half a minute, and having evidently made up his mind that Mrs. Johansen had no intention of retreating, he drew back and made a feint as though about to leap upon her, then drew back again. This he repeated three or four times. Each time he made a lunge Mrs. Johansen leaned forward and screamed in his face. This is probably all that saved her, as it is a well-known fact that many wild animals more aggressive than the bear may be frightened away by scolding or talking in an angry tone. At all events, the bear, in this instance, finally gave a grunt and turned away.

Mrs. Johansen had a revolver in her hand all this time, but she was unacquainted with its action, and did not even know that it contained more than a charge, which she saved until the very last.

Bruin was fired at, but hit or not, he kept on going. Mrs. Johansen then went over to where the sow lay and assured herself that it was dead.

Johansen, attracted by the shot and his wife's screams, arrived by this time. He had seen nothing of the bear but the tracks which indicated that he was a large one.

Some of the neighbors came shortly afterwards with dogs, and trailed the bear during most of the forenoon, but were unable to catch sight of him.

AUTO OUTBUTTS ANGRY BULL

Quick-Witted Chauffeur in Car Prevents Man From Being Fatally Gored

West Orange, N. J.—Thirty members of a Bible Class of a Newark church had a fall outing in the Pleasantdale section of the Orange Mountains. Several had narrow escapes from death; an automobile was damaged and the man lost a set of false teeth, all because one of the picnickers wanted to have a little fun.

The party journeyed to the mountains in two large automobile trucks and had luncheon on the Vincent farm. One of the men wanted to see things enlivened a little and took down the bars separating the picnic grounds from a pasture lot. Then men were eating at two long tables when a Holstein bull saw the party and charged. Some of the men took to the trees, others dived under the tables, some got into the automobile and some ran to a neighboring lot.

Three men took refuge in an automobile. This was charged by the bull and badly damaged. One of the men in the tree when he saw the bull coming in that direction fainted and fell to the ground. To prevent his being gored the chauffeur of one of the autos drove the car between the man and the beast. The bull was ready to charge when the chauffeur put on power and "batted" the animal into the next lot. The bars were put back in the gate and the picnic came to an end.

"The Declaration of Independence states that all men are born free and equal, I believe?" "Something of the sort." "Then why do you hold yourself so aloof?" "My dear man, I'm descended from one of its signers."

DOUBLY PROVEN.

Greencastle Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Greencastle citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.

Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

George W. Wood, farmer, Greencastle, says: "For the past ten or twelve years I had disordered kidneys. I suffered from severe pains in my back and about four years ago I was in bad shape. I was hardly able to bear the pain in my back and a too frequent desire to pass the kidney secretions caused me annoyance. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at Jones, Stevens Co.'s Drug store and less than one box relieved me. I am now well."

Confirmed Proof.

Later Mr. Wood said: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a fine remedy. I willingly confirm all I said in my former public statement, recommending them."

THE WAY IT GOES

"I'll lay me down and sleep," I said, "for I have fancies in my head, and I am weary from life's scrap, and so, methinks, I'll take a nap."

The house was still when thus I spoke; no voices made the echoes wake, no clamor shook the drowsy air, and silence brooded everywhere. And so upon my couch I lay, and sleep o'ertook me right away; but ere I sprang a dozen snores, the hired girl started slamming doors. I sought her where she rushed around and made this carnival of sound.

"Oh, bonehead damsel," I exclaimed, "what sort of scheme is this you've framed? You knew I wished to take a doze; then why such foolishness as those? I'll try and get to sleep once more, and if you slam a single door, to bring me back from dreamland's spheres, I'll pinch your hair and pull your ears."

Once more upon my couch I lay and dreamed I was a bale of hay; but ere I'd fairly hit my gait, the grocer's boy brought up a crate of canned tomatoes and such goods—of wienerswurst and breakfast foods—and slammed it on the kitchen floor, and I sat up and sweetly swore. My soul was bruised and sore and sad, and I pursued the grocer's lad and seized him firmly by the coat, and then his pantaloons I smote. "Gadzooks!" quoth I. "You measly wretch, you wicked youth, can you not fetch a case of prunes to my abode, but you must drop your musty load, so it will rouse me from my sleep and jar the house from donjon keep clear to the upper barbanic? Canst not thou pursue a sane plan?"

But little boots it was I said; once more I lay me on my bed and beckoned to the slumber god and drifted to the land of Nod. But ere I'd slept a single verse, another racket, vastly worse than anything I yet had known, broke up my nap and made me groan. My next door neighbor, christened John, came forth to mow his weedy lawn. His mower shrieked like souls in pain and clattered like a railway train. I rose and saw him toiling there, and from my window threw a chair, which broke three ribs and maimed an arm and did him other kinds of harm.

"I see," I sighed, "that he who'd sleep when he is tired can only weep; it's no use going back to bed—a man can't sleep till he is dead."—Walt Mason, from Judge.

Brains and Character

A man is a unit. There never has been a bad brain attached in one man to a good character; or a thoroughly diseased and vicious body to a good brain; or a fine character to a poor and playeany brain. Take Maarten's "God's Fool." There was an exquisite character in an imbecile. Can you call any man imbecile who has the divine spark whereby to distinguish invariably the essential from the non-essential; the limited from the eternal; the great from the small? He was called "God's Fool" not because his brain was small, but because his brain was so great it would not stoop to notice little human valuations. Tell him he had lost his fortune and he would smile brightly and go on with his work; but tell him a child was lonely or cruelly treated and he was up in arms against an evil world. There was once a man who lived in a town; it was just an ordinary town, a little less advanced, perhaps, than the average in social morals, and the man lived there for years; he was poor, he lived in extreme simplicity, he talked simply, even colloquially, but he bound up moral and mental wounds; he managed never to scoff and never to scorn; he made peace wherever he came; he brought sunshine into the darkest hole he entered; he kept himself so in the background that no one ever heard or knew whether he was personally happy or successful, or whether he had what he wanted or "lacked it, and when he went away every one said: "He was a good man; he was not intellectual, but he was good." And not once did they measure the intellectual brilliancy of being able to see and understand the Christ ideal, the ideal of giving help and counsel and comfort and sunshine to an evil world without once letting a want of one's own leak out. Does it matter really whether initiative, energy, intellectual brilliancy is directed to ministering to a town full of people or writing a critique of Pure Reason? It is simply intellect differently directed. —Harper's Weekly.

HYGIENIC ASPECTS OF THE GREAT WAR

It Has Been Demonstrated That Alcohol and Fighting are Incompatible.

BIG BOOM FOR "SAFETY FIRST"

The Same Spirit of Reform Crops Out in the Welfare Movements Among Industrial Workers.

New York—The war in Europe has awakened in the medical profession an interest in military surgery and hygiene which nothing short of a gigantic armed struggle could stimulate. Accordingly, the various professional publications are devoting a good deal of space to the consideration of every phase of the medical side of the conflict. The Journal of the American Medical Association comments on "The Value of Health in Industry and War." The editor declares that it has already been demonstrated that alcohol and fighting are incompatible.

There is food for reflection in the fact that even the preparation for real or anticipated war may bring about hygienic reforms which widespread preaching and earnest exhortation are at best slow in promoting. The "safety-first" slogan, the editor states, is one aspect of a movement to increase the personal welfare of the individual by decreasing the liability to injury through the carelessness of a fellow-man.

The same spirit crops out in the "ten trade commandments" of the worker which are posted conspicuously here and there in factories where personal injuries and loss of life furnish unfortunate and—let it be frankly added—unprofitable incidents in the conduct of manufacturing operations, the writer states.

The reminder "thou shalt not" gains added force, he adds, when its value is expressed in terms of practice and daily experience rather than in the more vague language of ethical considerations. And, accordingly, there is a telling force in such direct admonitions as the following quoted from a recent compilation for use in a factory:

"Thou shalt take no unnecessary risks, nor play practical jokes, for by thy carelessness thou mayest do injury which will have effect unto the third and fourth generations to follow."

"Remember thou art not the only one on the job, and that is sure to attract notice, cannot fail to promote the mutual and reciprocal interest of the employer and employed. Modern hygiene and preventive medicine have recognized long ago that the individual can no longer claim a liberty in his actions independent of his neighbor."

"Our provisions for quarantine, vaccination against smallpox, and divers other regulations in the interest of the public health, have, in the past, been enforced only with the annoyance that comes from lack of co-operation and from personal resentments, together with the indifference for restrictive rules that is bred in a community of 'free' people. Yet, now we see, in the combined enterprise and altruism of modern employers, protective devices put in operation to secure, without friction or resentment the same sort of welfare results that the Federal Government or State or municipality would find difficult in getting under way."

"That the unexpected situations created by war have in the past furnished the stimulus for new inventions and useful processes is too well known to require detailed comment. It would appear in the present situation that the war against universal peace may actually be a war against intemperance. The armies and navies today represent the most efficient fighting forces that the nations can command. No device, no agency that will contribute to their power and preparedness is willingly neglected. Health is a prime consideration in this respect."

"Field Marshal Earl Kitchener is reported to have counseled the English soldiers to abstain from drinking while abroad, reminding them that their duty cannot be done unless health is preserved. It is of slight consequence whether or not these rumors are entirely correct. They represent the current tendencies, which are undeniable by any one who has watched the recent decision of American naval authorities in the face of not a little apparently adverse criticism couched in the usual phrases concerning personal liberty. The truth is that 'the relation of alcohol and fighting has been squarely met, and the fact admitted that they not compatible.'"

"A recent editorial writer has expressed this by saying that a temperate army was something not conceived of in the old theories of war; but a drunkard is today as much out of place in an army as he would be on a battlefield."

PERSONAL

C. C. Hurst transacted business in Indianapolis today.

James Mahoney was in Indianapolis on business today.

Eugene Hamrick was a Greencastle visitor in Indianapolis today.

Isaac Gilmore has resigned as one of the Cloverdale rural route carriers after having served Uncle Sam in that capacity for twelve years. During that time Mr. Gilmore failed only three times to deliver each day's mail to his patrons and he only missed then because of floods and snow drifts that made the roads impassable. He traveled over 72,000 miles during his career as a mail carrier.

The warm weather Tuesday and the rain today spoiled the coasting for the youngsters who have enjoyed this sport for the past ten days. The College avenue hill from Washington street north has been the scene of this activity and many sleds were running constantly for several days during the Christmas vacation. A solid sheet of ice was frozen on the hill and the sleds ran at a high rate of speed from Washington street to the Cabinet factory and then down Melrose avenue to the Eitel green house.

Mrs. M. S. Joslin and Mrs. O. F. Overstreet were the hostesses this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Overstreet at the first of a series of thimble parties to be given in honor of their guests, Mrs. Parks and Miss Parks, of Los Angeles, Cal. The party, which proved to be one of the delightful informal social affairs of the season, was attended by about sixty Greencastle ladies. Two other parties will be given, one on Friday afternoon and the other on Saturday afternoon. Both will be given at the home of Mrs. Overstreet. Mrs. Parks and Miss Parks will remain in Greencastle during all of January.

Prosecuting Attorney William M. Sutherland today filed suit against Carlos A. Watson, a former member of the Greencastle police force, charging him with issuing a fraudulent check for $27.50. Watson was arrested several days ago and lodged in jail as the result of the filing of an affidavit in Justice of Peace Phillip Frank's Court, but was released on bond. Watson promised to settle the difference with Arthur L. Reat, to whom the bad check was issued, and the case will be prosecuted unless he fulfills the promise.

Two delightful thimble parties were given on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons by Mrs. C. T. Zaring in honor of Mrs. McAnney, of New York city, who is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Post. Those assisting Mrs. Zaring with the entertainment on the two afternoons were Mrs. Henry Grubb, Mrs. Caroline Doll, Mrs. A. E. Ayler, Mrs. J. O. Cammack, Mrs. Clara Lambers, Mrs. Elmer Long and Mrs. Fred O'Hair. Mrs. McAnney is the mother of Mr. McAnney, who is an instructor on the DePauw faculty, and Lorraine McAnney, a senior in the university.

Joseph Britton, of Roachdale, was in town on business today.

Ollie Vaughn, of Mt. Meridian, was a business visitor in Greencastle today.

The Earl Fisk Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, Number 43, will meet on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Modern Woodmen hall in the Ader block. Election of officers. Earl C. Lane, commander; George E. Black, adjutant.

Plans are being made by Heber Ellis, graduate manager of DePauw athletics for the annual banquet tendered to members of the university football team. The event this year will be held some time next week. An effort will be made to include other events during the course of the day that will make the honor given the football men more impressive.

Mrs. Hibbs, who resides north of town beyond the water works pumping station, was the victim of a peculiar accident on Monday evening when a sleigh in which she was riding broke down, throwing her to the ground. While no serious injuries resulted, Mrs. Hibbs will be confined to her home for several days because of the severe jar which she received. The accident occurred on the Dunbar hill, northwest of town. The cause was the breaking of a support to the bed of the sleigh which allowed one side to drop considerably. Mrs. Hibbs was taken to her home in a buggy owned by Wilbur Bohannon, who happened to pass soon after the accident occurred.

A steady downpour of rain which began Tuesday night and continued all day today made life very disagreeable for pedestrians today. The sidewalks were made all the wetter and almost impassable in some places because of the heavy coating of ice which remained over from the recent cold spell. This is almost all melted now, however, and more agreeable days, even though the rain continues, are promised for those who are forced to be out doors a great deal. The forecast is that fair weather will happen along this way again some time Thursday or Friday.

According to the oil men who are drilling a test well west of Bainbridge, little change has been made in the situation during the past few days. The well is now completed to a depth of about 600 feet, and results may be expected at any moment. The drillers continue to feel confident of striking oil for the oil seeps and gas pockets, which are considered good indications of the prevalence of oil, have shown up in much evidence for the past week. A bottle of oil taken from the well is on exhibition at the First National Bank this week. The oil was taken from the bailer which was lowered in the well and filled with the water, oil and other material which has seeped into the hole. The oil is very dark and is of a good quality.

Going Some.

The man who went naked into the Maine woods has killed a bear with a club and now has clothing and food. Give him a chance and he will come out in two months with a bag of caviar sandwiches and a log house, furnished with everything from a gas range to a grand piano.

MOSS'S GRAIN BILL
PASSES THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—The Moss bill to standardize grain grades and to provide for federal inspection of grain in interstate commerce was passed by the House today by a vote of 220 to 16.

The measure would authorize the secretary of agriculture to establish uniform standards of quality and of condition in grain, and would make unlawful the sale of grain, by grade, in interstate commerce unless it conformed with these standards.

All disputes as to the grade of grain fixed by a local inspector might be appealed to the secretary of agriculture by an interested party.

An appropriation of $375,000 to establish the machinery for the grading and inspecting is carried by the bill.

DAMAGE SUIT CALLED TO TRIAL IN PUTNAM COURT

After several hours' delay on account of absence of an attorney, the case of Oscar Kennedy against Charles Bruner, in which the plaintiff is asking for $20,000 damages for injuries he received in an accident at a saw mill at Lena where he was employed, was called to trial this afternoon in the Putnam Circuit Court. The jury was empaneled this morning and Judge James P. Hughes is presiding in the case.

Kennedy alleges he was permanently injured as the result of the explosion of a lantern, which occurred when he was employed by Mr. Bruner as night-watchman at the saw mill. He claims that the lantern was very defective and that the defendant was aware of that condition. The attorneys for Kennedy are Hays & Murphy of this city and White & Henderson. Mr. Bruner is represented by Attorneys B. F. Corwin and H. A. Cox.

INTERURBAN CONDUCTOR
REPORTED BETTER TODAY

A report from a Terre Haute hospital where E. H. Bessie, the interurban conductor, who was injured in a traction wreck at Coatesville Tuesday morning is under a physician's care, was received by the interurban men today, stating that he was much better and that his injuries are not as serious as was first reported. He suffered a broken knee cap and a badly mashed leg.

Physicians who rendered the first medical aid to Bessie were of the opinion that he suffered internal injuries. The hospital authorities reported that he rested well Tuesday night and is recovering as rapidly as could be expected. Bessie is one of the best known employees of the traction line running through here and his injury has caused much regret and sympathy among his fellow workmen.

THURBER QUILTS WABASH TO DO GRADUATE WORK

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 5.—Clarence H. Thurber, professor of public speaking and director of athletics at Wabash College for the past two years, tendered his resignation to Dr. G. L. Mackintosh this afternoon. This announcement comes as a great surprise to all the students and members of the faculty.

Mr. Thurber, who has long been interested in education work, has announced that he will go to Columbia University next year to pursue graduate work in psychology and education as he intends to continue in educational work.

The resignation of Mr. Thurber will be keenly felt as he has become very popular to all the students, members of the faculty and the people of Crawfordsville. Mr. Thurber has been very successful while head of the athletic department here and every one is sorry to learn that he has decided to leave.

During the coach's regime he has instilled a spirit of fine sportsmanship and has inspired a desire for clearer athletics. And this influence will be felt for a long time to come.

Spaulding's Name Mentioned.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 6.—Indianapolis alumni of Wabash College were surprised last night to learn that Coach Thurber had decided to leave the "Little Giants." There was considerable speculation as to who would take the athletic directorship at the Crawfordsville institution, but the general belief prevailed that one of the former athletes of the school would be named.

When Coach Jesse Harper resigned here was considerable talk of securing the services of "Bill" Spaulding, probably the greatest half back who ever wore a scarlet uniform. Spaulding is an all-round man, and has had great success since graduation, coaching at the Kalamazoo high school, where he has turned out teams which have been important factors in Michigan intercollegiate circles.

Spaulding is known to lean toward the likelihood that negotiations will be sought about to obtain his services. He was a member of the original "Little Giants," a former captain of the football eleven, and one of the most popular men who ever attended Wabash.

MANY WITNESSES EXAMINED IN SIMS MURDER CASE

The grand jury which was summoned by Judge James P. Hughes on Tuesday was in session again today and about fifteen witnesses in the Sims murder case were examined. Practically all the evidence in this case has been heard. About twenty-five witnesses have been examined during the past two days. It is probable that an indictment charging Clem McCammack with murder will be returned.

Witnesses have been summoned to appear before the grand jury Thursday and Friday. It is believed that the body will investigate the robbery case which occurred in Clinton Falls several weeks ago. Thieves broke into a farm house and stole a large quantity of fresh meat, but guilty parties were not apprehended. Several parties in that neighborhood have been suspected of petty crimes but no evidence which would prove their guilt has yet been found.

The jury will also investigate the work of miscreants of Madison township who committed several misdemeanors. In one case the parties visited a school house, took the books from the desk, stacked them in the middle of the floor and poured ink over them. It is probable that the jury will not return indictments in any of the cases until Friday or Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Gilmore have issued invitations for a dinner party to be given at their home on Friday evening.

WOULD HOLD PROPOSED TRACK
MEET ON DOWNTOWN STREETS.

Indications are that the proposed county track meet which, it was announced on Tuesday, will be conducted here in the spring under the auspices of the Greencastle high school, will be held on the downtown streets instead of on McKean athletic field. Several business men who belong to the Boosters Club, which probably will help finance the meet, have objected to holding the meet on McKean field on the grounds that such an action would defeat the very purpose that the club would have in mind in cooperating in the project.

It is believed that the meet can be held on the streets successfully and that more good will accrue to the town if this course is taken. The vacant lot just west of the fire department building has been suggested as the place for holding some of the events of the meet. Others, such as the distance runs, could be terminated there. This plan would, it is believed, be a much better one in advertising the town and in allowing the merchants to come into contact with the large crowd that is expected here on the day of the meet.

A definite decision of the place to hold the meet probably will be made before long. In the meantime the high school athletic officials will continue with their plans of interesting the different schools of the county in the coming event.

MOSS URGES PROMPT ACTION.

Says Administration is Not Blocking Rural Credits Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Representative Moss, of Indiana, member of the commission to investigate and to study rural credits and agricultural co-operative organizations in European countries, today delivered a speech in the house on the need of rural credits legislation.

He said that this legislation is being blocked, not by the administration, as many erroneously suppose, but by those radical advocates in the congress who insist that no system shall be approved that does not recognize the principle of direct loans from the government's treasury to the farmers of the United States.

Mr. Moss made it clear that neither the President nor Secretary of Agriculture Houston objects to the principle of government aid to farm finance. "Each accepts the principle, but objects to certain forms of government aid," said Mr. Moss. "That feature of the commission's bill which grants full exemption from all forms of federal, state and municipal taxation is acceptable to the President. The feature of government aid to which the President objects is furnishing the money to be lent directly to farmers."

LIQUOR SPLITS GRAND

OLD PARTY IN ILLINOIS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 5.—At a conference of nine ultra-wet members of the lower house, presided over by Thomas Curran of Chicago, it was decided not to enter the Republican caucus tonight because of the "wet" and "dry" issue.

The assumption is that a majority of the Republicans are "drys" and the "wets" are not going to be bound by any agreement which might bind them to vote for a "dry" candidate for speaker.

Unless some compromise can be reached, it looks like the organization of the house may be indefinitely postponed.

With only 78 Republicans, a majority of two, the votes of those who decided to stay out of their party caucus are necessary to elect a speaker.
